Please make a summative comment about RE in the school which may be used for publicity	The passion and enthusiasm of the subject leaders is obvious. They have turned around the delivery of RE in the school in a very short time and have succeeded in making the subject relevant and exciting for their pupils. The curriculum is based around 'Big Questions' and encourages an ethos of tolerance and respectful curiosity. The enthusiasm of the pupils for the subject is clear. RE is taught using a spiral curriculum and a variety of learning activities designed to make sure that the information is retained and can be built upon.
Any other comments about the school or the process	The RE lead had arranged for a group of 5 pupils to talk to me and answer questions about RE in their school. This is what I have missed most about moving the assessment process online and it was wonderful to have this opportunity.
